

SEXUAL HARASSMENT SOUNDS LIKE:

I hate the way they're so
touchy at work

Why is he always staring at me?

Please don't make me
work alone with them

I wish they'd stop
making those jokes

Why would they ask me that at work?

I've already said no -
stop asking me!

My nickname at work
is so humiliating

I'm not interested!

Sexual harassment is never acceptable.

Sexual harassment isn't always what you might expect. It might be unwelcome touching, suggestive comments or jokes, sexualised nicknames, intruding into personal space or unwelcome personal questions and comments - in person or online. It doesn't matter who the person is or how small, hidden or innocent the behaviour may appear, sexual harassment should be reported every time it occurs.

If someone sexually assaults you at work, you should call ACT Policing on 131 444, or 000 if it is an emergency. You should report all sexual harassment to your manager, human resources team or WHS representative. When these internal processes fail, you can report your concerns to WorkSafe ACT and our psychosocial team will look into it. You can even report it anonymously.
